Bibliography and Photos

Commemorating the 19th Amendment: Looking Back and Looking Forward
Miriam Cohen, Professor of History on the Evalyn Clark Chair, Rebecca Edwards, Professor of History on the Eloise Ellery Chair, and Diane Harriford, Professor of Sociology

Professor Miriam Cohen (including Archival Photographs)

Bibliography on Women’s Suffrage and Vassar’s Place in the Movement.
Ellen Carol Dubois Suffrage: Women’s Long Battle for the Vote (Simon and Schuster, 2020)

Rosalyn Terborg-Penn African American Women in the Struggle for the Vote, 1850-1920 (Indiana, 1998)

Biographies of the Vassar activists in the women’s movement:
Ellen Carol Dubois, Harriot Stanton Blatch And the Winning of Woman Suffrage (Yale, 1997)
Dale Mezzacappa, “Vassar College and the Suffrage Movement,” Vassar Quarterly 69 (1972)
Elizabeth Daniels and Barbara Page, “Suffrage as a Lever for Change at Vassar College,” Vassar Quarterly 79 (1982)
Clockwise from left: A poster for a campus suffrage rally. Suffragists Harriot Stanton (class of 1878) and Crystal Eastman (class of 1903). Vassar Archives and Special Collections
Inez-Milholland Boissevain, class of 1909, leads a suffrage parade in Washington, DC, in 1913.

Professor Rebecca Edwards

Lisa Tetrault, The Myth of Seneca Falls, shows how Susan B. Anthony and Elizabeth Cady Stanton shaped a narrative in which suffrage had always been the main goal, in order to assert their leadership and their definition of “women’s rights.”

Lara Vapnek's Breadwinners (Urbana: University of Illinois, 2009) and on coverture

Linda Kerber, No Constitutional Right to be Ladies (Hill and Wang, 1999)

Norma Basch's work on marriage and property (such as In the Eyes of the Law): https://specialcollections.vassar.edu/exhibit-highlights/2011-2015/sesquicentennial/1900s_american_womens_rights.html